THE McKEAN MINER.

Smethport, Pa., December 28, 1882.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS.

—Court again January 8th.

—Court adjourned Thursday evening.

—The jail has been relieved of a number of unprofitable boarders.

—The thaw made a large amount of water which was thankfully received by all.

—The corider of the jail is lighted by a big head light and the cell lamps have been taken out.

—A fire at Custer City last week destroyed the house of Joseph McIntyre with all its contents.

—Thursday night a house occupied by Frank Freeman, Custer City, burned. Part of the contents were saved.

—Wednesday afternoon, Charles Topham's house on the Quintuple tract burned, and with it all his household goods.

—The organ man Lemaire traded for a hog with a Colegrove butcher, which hog he describes as nine feet long, three and one-half high and weighs thirteen hundred pounds. B. H.

What The Grand Jury Want.

As is required, the Grand Jury before closing their labors visited the different public buildings and made to the court such recommendations as in their wisdom they thought proper for the welfare of the county. Among these was the recommendation that the commissioners provide carpet for the Grand Jury room. Whether the board will do so or not remains to be seen, but there is not probably enough men in the county to make a Grand Jury who would, think it necessary or advisable.

Large Printing House Burned.

Last Thursday a fire broke out in the Buffalo Commercial Advertiser office which, before it was arrested had destroyed property to the value of three hundred thousand dollars. The Commercial Advertiser building was destroyed, and, with its contents, entails a loss of one hundred and seventy five thousand dollars, but fortunately they have an insurance of one hundred and thirty five thousand dollars.

The Courier at once tendered the hospitalities of their office to their unfortunate brethren and for a short time the Advertiser will be printed on the Courier press.

Hearken to the Sentence.

At the evening session of the court last Thursday his Honor Judge Wilson passed sentence on a number of prisoners convicted of various crimes as follows, to wit:

Charles Wagner convicted of larceny of railroad tickets at Kane, to pay a fine of one dollar and costs of prosecution and undergo imprisonment at hard labor for one year and three calendar months.

James Nelson who broke open Dr. Page's house in Bradford and stole a few articles, sentenced to pay a fine of one dollar and costs of prosecution and undergo imprisonment in the penitentiary, at labor for two years and three calendar months.

Chas. Porterfield was brought up for sentence, but grave doubts existed in the minds of the Judges and sentence was deferred until the second Monday of January to give the young man a chance to show what he declares to be the facts in the case.

Hugh Fox agad twenty-three, larceny, to pay a fine of one dollar and costs of prosecution and undergo imprisonment at labor for one year and three calendar months.

John Cornelius, assault and battery sentenced to pay a fine of five dollars and costs of prosecution and to stand committed until the sentence be complied with.

Billy Miller of Port Allegany charged with mayhem in biting a finger of a man, sentenced to pay a fine of twelve dollars and costs and to undergo imprisonment in the county jail for a period of thirty days and to stand committed until the sentence be complied with.

By Universal Accord,

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS are the best of all purgatives for family use. They are the product of long, laborious, and successful chemical investigation, and their extensive use, by physicians in their practice, and by all civilized nations, proves them the best and most effectual purgative Pill that medical science can devise. Being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use, and being sugar-coated, they are pleasant to take. In intrinsic value and curative powers no other Pills can be compared with them; and every person, knowing their virtues, will employ them, when needed. They keep the system in perfect order, and maintain in healthy action the whole machinery of life. Mild, searching and effectual, they are especially adapted to the needs of the digestive apparatus, derangements of which they prevent and cure, if timely taken. They are the best and safest physic to employ for children and weakened constitutions, where a mild but effectual cathartic is required.

For sale by all druggists.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from active practice having had placed in his hands by an East India Missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for General Debility and all nervous complaints, after having thoroughly tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, deems it his duty to make it known to his fellows. The recipe, with full particulars, directions for preparation and use, and all necessary advice and instructions for successful treatment at your own home, will be received by you by return mail, free of charge, by addressing with stamp or stamped and self addressed envelope to Harper's Magazine.

Illustrated.

Harper's Magazine begins its sixty-third volume with the December Number. It is not only the most popular illustrated periodical in America and England, but also the largest in its scheme, the most beautiful in its appearance and the best magazine for the home. A new novel, entitled "For the Major," by CONSTANCE FENIMORE WOOLSON, the author of "Anne," was begun in the November Number. In literary and artistic excellence the Magazine improves with each successive number. Special efforts have been made for the lighter entertainment of its readers through humorous stories, sketches, &c.

THE McKEAN MINER.

Smethport, Pa., December 29, 1882.

One of the time-honored customs of weekly newspapers is the omission of publication one week at holiday time, in order to give all employees a much-needed short vacation. Rather than omit publication this week we issue a half sheet devoted almost exclusively to our advertisers, which we can do by a little extra work and still enjoy our holiday with the rest of the world.

How the Stockings Were Filled.

Pussy got into the house somehow, just as the least little streak of morning light was beginning to peep through the window curtains, and stole upstairs. She jumped upon the bed and rubbed her cold nose against Lill's face, and wakened her.

Lill sprang up in her bed, for it came to her like a flash. 'It's Christmas Day. Bessie, wake up! Merry Christmas!' she cried, pattering down stairs to the sitting-room, after the Christmas stockings.

They hadn't a doubt of finding them full. Santa Claus had never forgotten them yet.

You can imagine, then, their dismay when each little girl clasped a limb and empty stocking, with not so much as a sugar-plum to fill out the toe.

They ran to mamma's bed-room to pour out their complaints.

'Santa Claus forgot us!' cried Lill, with starting tears.

'He didn't bring us anything!' said Bessie, throwing herself across her mother's feet in an agony of grief.

'I think it's too bad!' said Lill.

'He's real mean. I'll never like him again!' said Bessie.

'Oh, go back to bed,' said mamma. 'You've got up to early. How do you expect Santa Claus can always get around before daylight? There are such numbers of little boys and girls, the wonder is that he gets round at all. He'd never forget you, I'm sure. Go back, and curl down in bed till it's really light. Then get up and dress yourselves nicely before you come down, and you'll see what you see.

Rather disconsolate the little girls went back to bed.

'You needn't feel so bad Bessie Bradley. Haven't you found out more'n a hundred times, that mamma knows about things better'n we do?' said Lill.

'I ain't feelin' bad any more'n you are, and Santa Claus is a comin' in about nine or eight minutes,' said Bessie.

While waiting for daylight they talked of the presents they hoped to have, and as soon as the sun peeped above the eastern horizon they were up, and putting on their clothes as quickly as possible, went down stairs.

There was nobody in the sitting-room A fire was burning in the grate, and the stockings hung against the mantel, but they still looked limp.

They were not near enough to be sure they were empty, when a loud 'Toot! toot! toot!' sounded from somewhere, with a jingling of bells and a tramping of feet.

'He's coming! O, Lill Bradley, old Santa's a coming!' said Bessie, clinging to her sister's skirts. Lill held her breath and said nothing.

The door flew open, and in bounced Santa Claus, sure enough! He wore a very furry coat and a red cap, and bound with fur. His eyes were hidden behind great silver rimmed spectacles, and hair and beard were long and white as snow.

Mamma came out of the bed-room just then, and Bessie and Lill sidled up to her and caught each one of her hands, feeling half afraid of the queer, jolly old elf and then stood, silent and watchful.

The great pack upon Santa's back didn't seem to be empty yet, and there were packages peeping out of every pocket, out of the breast of his coat, and even out of his sleeves. He seemed in a tearing hurry.

'Whew! whew!' said he. 'This is the first chance I've had to take breath since I started out last night. So many youngsters to visit this year! I thought I never should get round. Whew! how hot it is here. Well, let's see!'

He whirled the pack from his back down on the rug, and began rummaging vigorously among the packages within it. 'Only two stockings to fill here and little ones at that. I've lots of presents left over.'

He drew out a package, held his head on one side with a little grimace as he peeped into it, and thrust it into Lill's red stocking.

'That's a doll, I know!' whispered Lill, squeezing her mother's hand.

A similar package went into Bessie's blue one. Then other smaller packages till the stockings would hold no more.

All the time he worked he kept jerking out funny little speeches about the children and their wants, as if he knew all about them.

Lill and Bess were in a state of joyful excitement. Lill thought there was something familiar about the voice or the motions or something; she could'nt tell what.

'I believe I've seen him before! Else I dreamed I did! Else he's some like father!' she whispered.

Her mother laughed aloud at this. It made old Santa Claus look up from his work, and he seemed to enjoy the little group in the corner for the first time.

'Bless my stars! he ejaculated, beginning to gather up hastily from the parcels that had fallen out of his pack.

'Bless my stars and stripes! Folks mustn't see me about this business!

He threw his pack over his back, and then putting his hands deep in his side pockets, drew them out full, and a shower of sugar-plums pelted the little girls, as he hurried out of the room.

Just as he was going he threw a big package at their mother, saying:

'That's for the old lady, there! Came pretty near forgetting her!'

Lill knew the voice in which this was said, and cried out:

'It's father! It's father!'

They sprang after him and led him back into the room in laughing triumph

They took off the pointed cap and blue spectacles. They brushed the flour from his eyebrows and rubbed the red from his cheeks. They robbed him of the pillow that had made him look 'shabby and tramp,' and the gray wig and beard that made him look so venerable.

And when they came to examine the contents of the stockings they were more than ever delighted to have for a Santa Clause their own dear father.
